What is the number one question young people are wrestling with these days? Well, it's "Who am I?" Questions of identity are soaring, with identity-based content on social media platforms like TikTok garnering billions of views and internet searches like "Am I gay?" or "Am I trans?" jumping each year.

And we want to help young people find their true identity—an identity grounded in God's design from creation and the gospel of Jesus Christ. That's why we're designing a brand-new exhibit for the Creation Museum—Radiance.

This beautiful new exhibit space will focus on our identity as an image of God's glory. If you're familiar with the Creation Museum layout, this new exhibit will go where our Discovery Hall currently is.

This exhibit will be powerful for young people, pointing them to God's Word as the unshakable foundation for their questions, including the question of "Who am I?" We are thrilled that we continue to produce cutting-edge exhibits that exalt God's Word and deal with the big issues of our day.

These photos will give you an idea of what the new exhibit space will be like as our artists and fabricators make mock-ups to test their designs.
