MUTH'S TRUTHS

NEVADA NEWS & VIEWS

National

As you've probably heard, the United States Supreme Court handed President Trump a YUGE victory today, ruling that rogue, left-wing district court judges cannot usurp the president's executive powers.

U.S. Attorney General Pam Bondi noted today that 35 of the 40 injunction lawsuits filed – mostly by Democrat attorney generals – came from just five far-left jurisdictions: Maryland, D.C., Massachusetts, California, and Washington.

"That's crazy!" she said in a press conference this morning.

Speaking of crazy...

Whenever he hopped on the bandwagon and added his name to one of these anti-Trump "lawfare" suits, Nevada Attorney General A-Ron Ford (D-EI) almost broke his neck getting in front of a camera, sliming the president, patting himself on the back, and taking credit for the actions of others.

But after this morning's decision? Crickets.

If he can't sue Trump anymore, what's this guy going to do all day? Someone might wanna do a welfare check on him.

P.S. Coming Soon: Announcement of a new lawsuit related to voting fraud – maybe later this afternoon. Stay tuned, Batfans!
