A faculty group is demanding the release of a professor it claims was "kidnapped" for no reason by federal agents. The California Faculty Association claimed "four masked agents" put the CSU Channel Islands professor into an unmarked vehicle "without identifying themselves" or giving a reason for the arrest. But a U.S. Attorney said he "was not 'kidnapped' by federal agents" but "was arrested for throwing a tear gas canister at law enforcement." On Monday the scholar was released on bail from federal custody and is scheduled to be arraigned Aug. 1. His attorney vows to fight the charges.
