

MUTH'S TRUTHS Do You Have Any Story Ideas? Switching over to our new format for Nevada News & Views right before the start of the 2025 legislative session was a challenge, to say the least. We were busy learning how to “perfect” the use of these new AI (artificial intelligence) tools while simultaneously bringing on new political writers who didn’t have a whole lot of experience in news reporting. They all did a great job! We covered bills, issues, and players from a CONSERVATIVE perspective and published articles on them you wouldn’t find anywhere else in the mainstream press. And now that we’re no longer drinking from a fire hose, we’re ready to take it up a notch and expand our coverage. Let me ‘splain what we’re doing and how - and ask for your help... We recently learned about plans for a new “tuition-free” private school coming to Nevada – a story no one else has covered. So one of our writers, Kristen Kniep, arranged this week to do a recorded Zoom interview with its founder. The recorded interview was then uploaded to an AI tool for transcription. And that transcription was spot on – unlike similar services in the past. The transcript was then uploaded into another AI tool to generate a news article based on the interview. And that article was published today in Nevada News & Views. Click here. This simple – comparatively fast – process will enable us to publish articles on conservative projects, leaders, and businesses faster and better than was “humanly” possible before AI came into our lives. In fact, Kristen and I met a gentleman who owns a Trump merchandise store in Las Vegas at the Nevada Republican Club’s monthly “happy hour” at the Ahern Hotel on Tuesday and Kristen will next work on a feature telling his story. An article I guarantee you won’t find anywhere in the traditional press. We also met a retired gentleman from southern California who has an extensive history of conservative activism that continues to this day here in Las Vegas. He’s a genuine “unsung hero” grassroots volunteer and we’re planning on doing a separate feature on him in the coming days. So if you know of an interesting person, business, organization, or project that might be a good story to tell fellow conservatives in Nevada, let us know. Just shoot a short email with details to: editor@nevadanewsandviews.com.
