The Islamic call to prayer — the Adhan — now blasts across Minneapolis five times a day on public loudspeakers.

Even at 3:30 AM.

This didn't happen overnight. It's been building for decades.

It started in Dearborn (1981), where a mosque sued the city to publicly broadcast the Adhan — and won.

Then, in Hamtramck (2004), the city council legalized it.

In Paterson, New Jersey (2020), they followed suit.

And Minneapolis took it a step further in 2023 — enshrining it into law.

This Isn't About "Religious Freedom."

The Adhan literally declares that every faith but Islam is false. It's not a "prayer" — it's a public proclamation of Islamic supremacy.

And now it's protected by law in one of America's major cities.

The Minneapolis Breakthrough

In 2023, the Adhan for all five daily prayers was authorized to echo through Minneapolis — not just on Fridays, not just during Ramadan — but every single day, five times a day.

Whether you're Muslim or not. Whether you're trying to sleep or not. Even if it's 3:30 in the morning.

No other religion imposes its rituals on the public in this manner. But this is how Islamization happens — not through open conquest, but through legal precedent.

Where It Began: Masjid Dar Al-Hijrah

The place that made it possible? Masjid Dar Al-Hijrah, the oldest Somali mosque in Minneapolis, opened in 1998.

This is where the groundwork was laid — the first step in transforming Minneapolis into "Little Mogadishu."

Now, as pre-dawn prayers blare through loudspeakers, residents can thank Dar Al-Hijrah for their sleepless nights.

Just like in Somalia, Christians' comfort — or existence — doesn't matter.

The Transformation of a City

What began as a Somali refugee enclave known as Cedar-Riverside is now a political and cultural stronghold where Islam is reshaping public life. The mosques are not just houses of worship — they're headquarters for the de-Americanization of an entire city.

Muslim leaders claim they “fled war.” In reality, they recreated the ideology they fled — now forcing it on everyone else.

The Leaders Behind the Bill

Behind this push?

- CAIR's Jelani Hussain, Minnesota's most powerful Islamic operative.
- Jeremiah Ellison, son of Keith Ellison, the first Muslim Congressman and now Attorney General, who proudly posed with an Antifa handbook.
- Three Muslim city council members who rewrote the city's ordinance to accommodate Islam.
- And Jacob Frey, the radical left-wing mayor, who is working side by side with jihadis to destroy America from within.

Once again, CAIR — a Muslim Brotherhood front group — has weaponized “civil rights” to impose Sharia norms on American cities. And no one stopped them.

What It Means for America

When church bells ring in Muslim nations, Christians are persecuted — or killed. When Bibles can be read freely in their countries, when Christians can pray without fear, then we can talk about “religious equality.”

But this isn't an Islamic nation. And Islam has no right to broadcast its supremacy call over America.

They call it a “historic achievement.” They're right — it's historic. It marks the moment a major American city submitted.

Can This Happen Across America?

Yes — and that's precisely the plan.

Minneapolis set a national precedent. And you can be sure it will continue to spread — town by town, city by city — until the Adhan echoes coast to coast.

This is how civilization jihad works — the Muslim Brotherhood's blueprint for subverting America from within.

Slowly.

Legally.

With your silence.

The Line Has Been Crossed

Left-wing politicians are aiding those trying to conquer us — while so-called conservative leaders sit silently on the sidelines and watch..

Minneapolis today. Your city tomorrow.

It ends when Americans stand up. Call your leaders. Demand legislation that ends this noise jihad — before it spreads across America.

Because this isn't just a call to prayer, it's a call to conquest.
