

Parents need 'consent' to change diapers, scholars say

Latest from The College Fix

NEVER SATIRE Academics: Parents should get 'consent' before changing their newborn's diapers "At the start of a [diaper] change, ensure your child knows what is happening. Get down to their level and say, 'you need a nappy change' and then pause so they can take this in." BREAKING NEWS Trump administration takes hatchet to Ed. Dept. duties in massive downsizing, restructuring The agency will transfer a lot of its workload to other federal departments. LEFTIST TOLERANCE? U. Wisconsin police investigating images of ICE agents shot in head Images on campus depict violence against ICE agents, including hand-drawn images of agents being shot in the head with violent phrases. ANTISEMITISM WATCH Northwestern U. can sanction students who refuse antisemitism training, court rules The training program, which covers topics including antisemitism and bias, must be completed by students to avoid sanctions like loss of financial aid and housing. IN THE COURTS Judge rules Trump administration cannot freeze funding or demand payments from University of California Judge said administration is "engaged in a concerted campaign to purge" left-leaning viewpoints from colleges and universities. CANCEL CULTURE

'Stand with free speech': Pressure mounts to rehire adjunct fired for Charlie Kirk comments "My remarks came from that place, a deep professional and moral responsibility to speak out against violence and the conditions that allow it to persist."