Today's military strikes on Iran — carried out by the United States and Israel — mark a catastrophic escalation in an illegal war of aggression. Bombing cities. Killing civilians. Opening a new theater of war. Americans do not want this. They do not want another war in pursuit of regime change. They want relief from the affordability crisis. They want peace.

Mamdani Blasts U.S.-Iran Strike

NYC Mayor Zohran Mamdani rushed to condemn the U.S. strike on Iran and sparked a firestorm. Critics say his post reads less like moral clarity and more like sympathy for Tehran, with outrage for America but none for the regime's brutality. View on Instagram

Cenk Uygur Praises Khamenei's "Courage"

@cenkuygur

I criticized Iran's Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei a thousand times. He was oppressing his own people and preventing democracy. But there's one thing you can't take away from him, he died on his own two feet, instead of kneeling to Israel. That took courage. He didn't bow.

Cenk Uygur Praises Khamenei's "Courage"

Cenk Uygur claims he's criticized Ali Khamenei "a thousand times," yet in the same breath, he praises the fallen dictator for his "courage." Khamenei didn't die protecting his people; he died maintaining a regime that stripped them of their basic human rights. Calling that "courage" is a slap in the face to the tens of thousands who were tortured, imprisoned, and killed by his hand simply for demanding freedom. Courage isn't found in a tyrant refusing to "bow," it's found in the brave Iranians who stood in the streets against his bullets. View on Instagram
