For the 13th consecutive year, the March for Justice flooded the streets of Dearborn (Rashida Tlaib's district) to honor Imam Hussain (AS). Not one American flag in sight. Instead, Shi'ite religious flags flew high, including from a helicopter in prior years, as a blatant show of power and foreign allegiance in the heart of America.

Mayor Abdullah H. Hammoud proudly welcomed the crowd:

“Welcome to Dearborn’s annual March for Justice. This march commemorates Imam Hussain’s unwavering commitment to justice and the stand that he took over 1400 years ago, standing against oppression, and it’s a commitment that we renew each and every single day, each and every single year in this march for justice that we’re so proud to host in the city of Dearborn.”

What does “justice” actually mean here? It does not mean the American concept of liberty, equality under the Constitution, or freedom for all. In this context, “justice” means everyone living under Sharia, Islamic supremacist law, where non-Muslims submit, women are second-class, free speech is replaced by blasphemy laws, and criticism of Islam is forbidden. This is the same ideology that has conquered Dearborn demographically and culturally.

This is the same mayor who last year viciously attacked a Christian resident at a City Council meeting. He called the man a “bigot,” “racist,” and “Islamophobe” and declared:

“You are not welcome here” – all because the Christian questioned honoring a terrorist.

The same mayor now celebrates a march that rejects American symbols and renews commitment to a foreign religious-political system. U.S. media stayed silent on the raw display of power.

Dearborn facts the media won't highlight:

- Arab capital of North America with the highest concentration of Muslims per capita in the U.S. (majority Shiite).
- Home to America's largest mosque.
- Restaurants and businesses display signs in Arabic.
- All meat in Dearborn public schools is halal, a textbook example of using minority demands to impose Sharia elements on the non-Muslim majority.

This is not integration. This is seizure of control by an ideological army that advances through birth rates, immigration, politics, and cultural dominance. Dearborn is just the latest Western city Islamic supremacists have taken over without a shot fired.

They march openly now, renewing their oath to “justice” that ultimately means Sharia for everyone.

America, this is your future if you stay silent. The army has already planted its flags.
